N.S.S: National Service Scheme

The National Service Scheme (NSS) is a central sector public service program in India launched on September 24, 1969, by the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports to develop student personality through community service. Operating under the motto "Not Me But You," it fosters social responsibility, civic engagement, and character development among students in schools and colleges.

Regular Activities (RA): Ongoing projects such as cleaning, tree planting, blood donation drives, and awareness campaigns, with a funding of Rs. 400 per volunteer annually.

Special Camping Programme (SCP): 7-day or 10-day camps held in adopted villages or urban slums, focusing on specific community development projects.

Motto: "Not me but you" reflects the essence of selfless service.

Symbol: The symbol is based on the Konark Sun Temple's Rath wheel, representing movement and cycle of life. The 24 bars represent 24 hours of the day.

Color: The red badge indicates high energy and lively youth, while navy blue represents the cosmos.

Through seminars, rallies, competitions, training programs, and social campaigns, NSS helps students develop communication skills, critical thinking, teamwork, and a strong sense of citizenship. The department acts as a bridge between the university and society, fostering responsible individuals who contribute meaningfully to social progress.
